

The Cape Fear is the only large river in North Carolina flowing directly into the Atlantic Ocean instead of a sound. It was with trepidation and dread that seamen sailed into the river's waters, and that is how it got its foreboding name.

